

Government spokesperson:

“The Government remains committed to good faith negotiations with PSA to achieve a new enterprise agreement for salaried workers in the South Australian public sector.

Current wages and conditions for these employees were agreed between the PSA and the former Liberal Government through enterprise bargaining in 2021, and were approved by a vote of a majority of employees.

The Malinauskas Government has made clear that - unlike the former Liberal Government - it is committed to providing a real wage increase above the current rate of inflation. That is reflected in the Government's most recent offer to the PSA.

The Government needs to balance wage increases for public sector employees with responsible economic management to continue to provide essential services to the South Australian community.”
